"We don't consider ourselves a technology company. We consider ourselves a teaching and learning company because we are really passionate about how technology can help students' and teachers."

Seán Glynn, Chief Learning Officer, Wriggle Learning

Very quickly I could see that Wriggle had done their homework and that they knew exactly what it was that would make life easier, more manageable and accessible to actually make this a workable plan within the school. It was brilliant because instantly it created a buzz in the school and the staffroom and people started to talk about moving this direction in a positive way.

Ingrid Fallon, Principal, Holy Family Community School

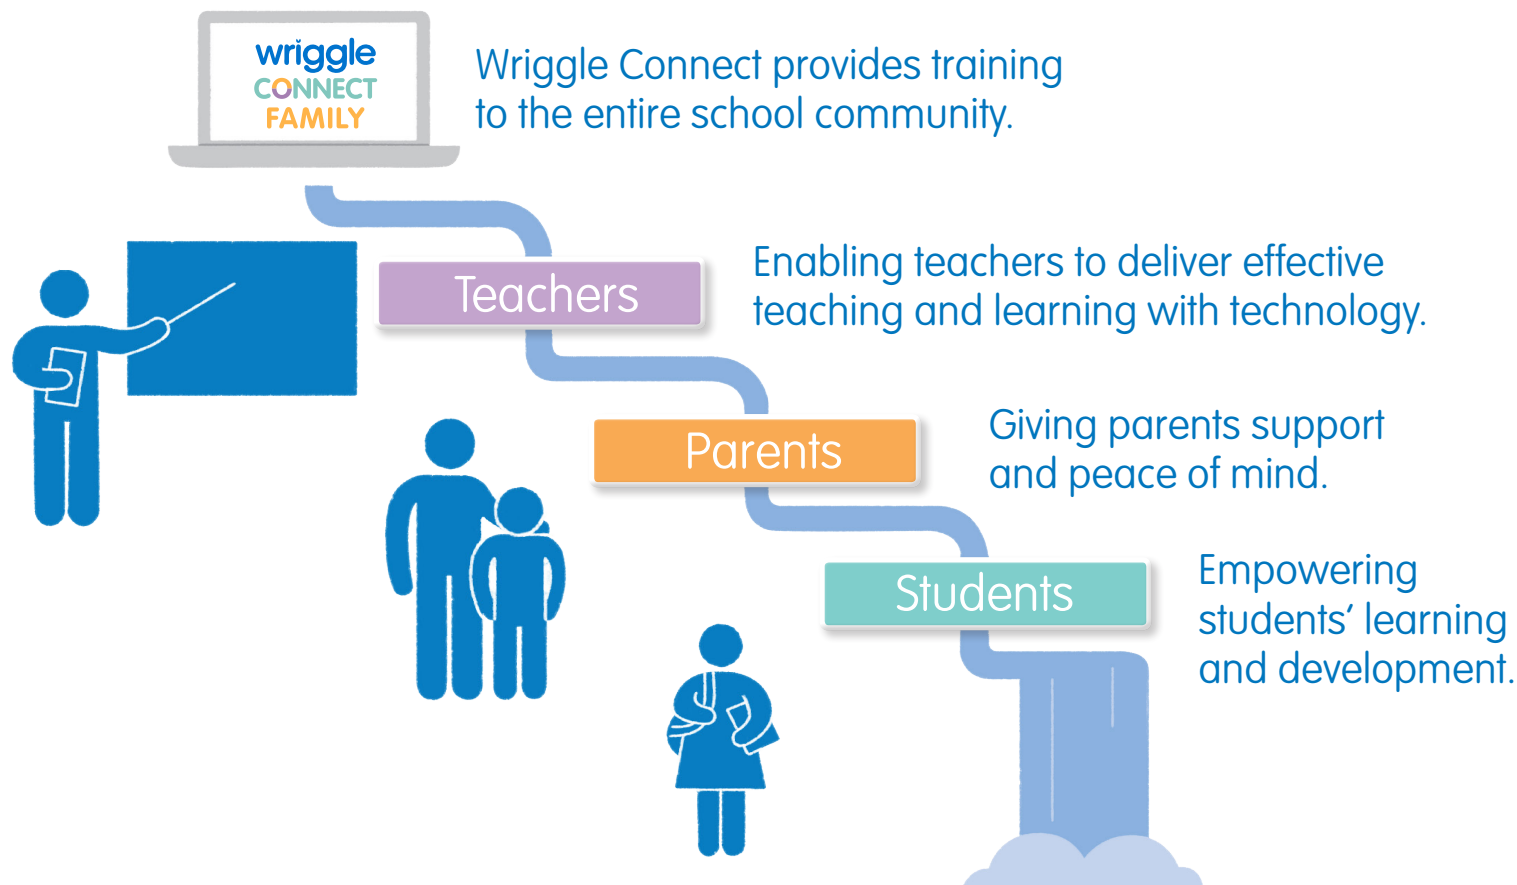

Our students skills and confidence grew hugely and they developed a whole skillset to prepare them for life and for me that's the measure of success.

Alan Mongey, Principal, Claregalway College

"The interest is huge amongst our parents, absolutely huge because they see the value of the programme and what has happened especially in the last 6 months."

Ursula McCabe, Principal, Old Bawn Community School
